SPECTACULAR DIVE SITES

There are dozens and dozens of other astonishing spots which would be suitable for both beginners & experienced divers , to be discovered. Each and every one is more unique and dazzling from the other. They are all here waiting, to display their beauty to you and to render your dives in Baa atoll unforgettable.

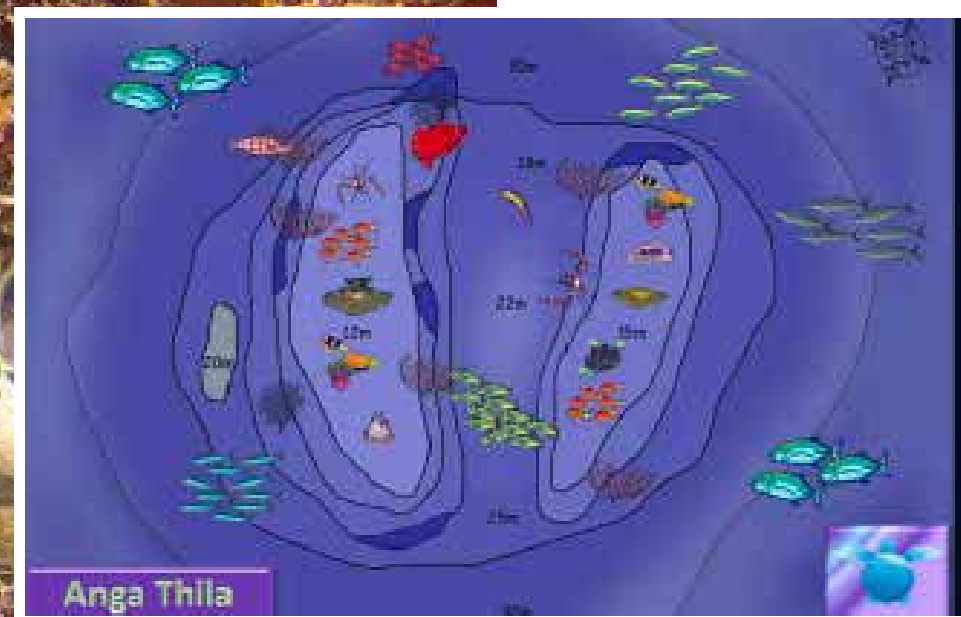

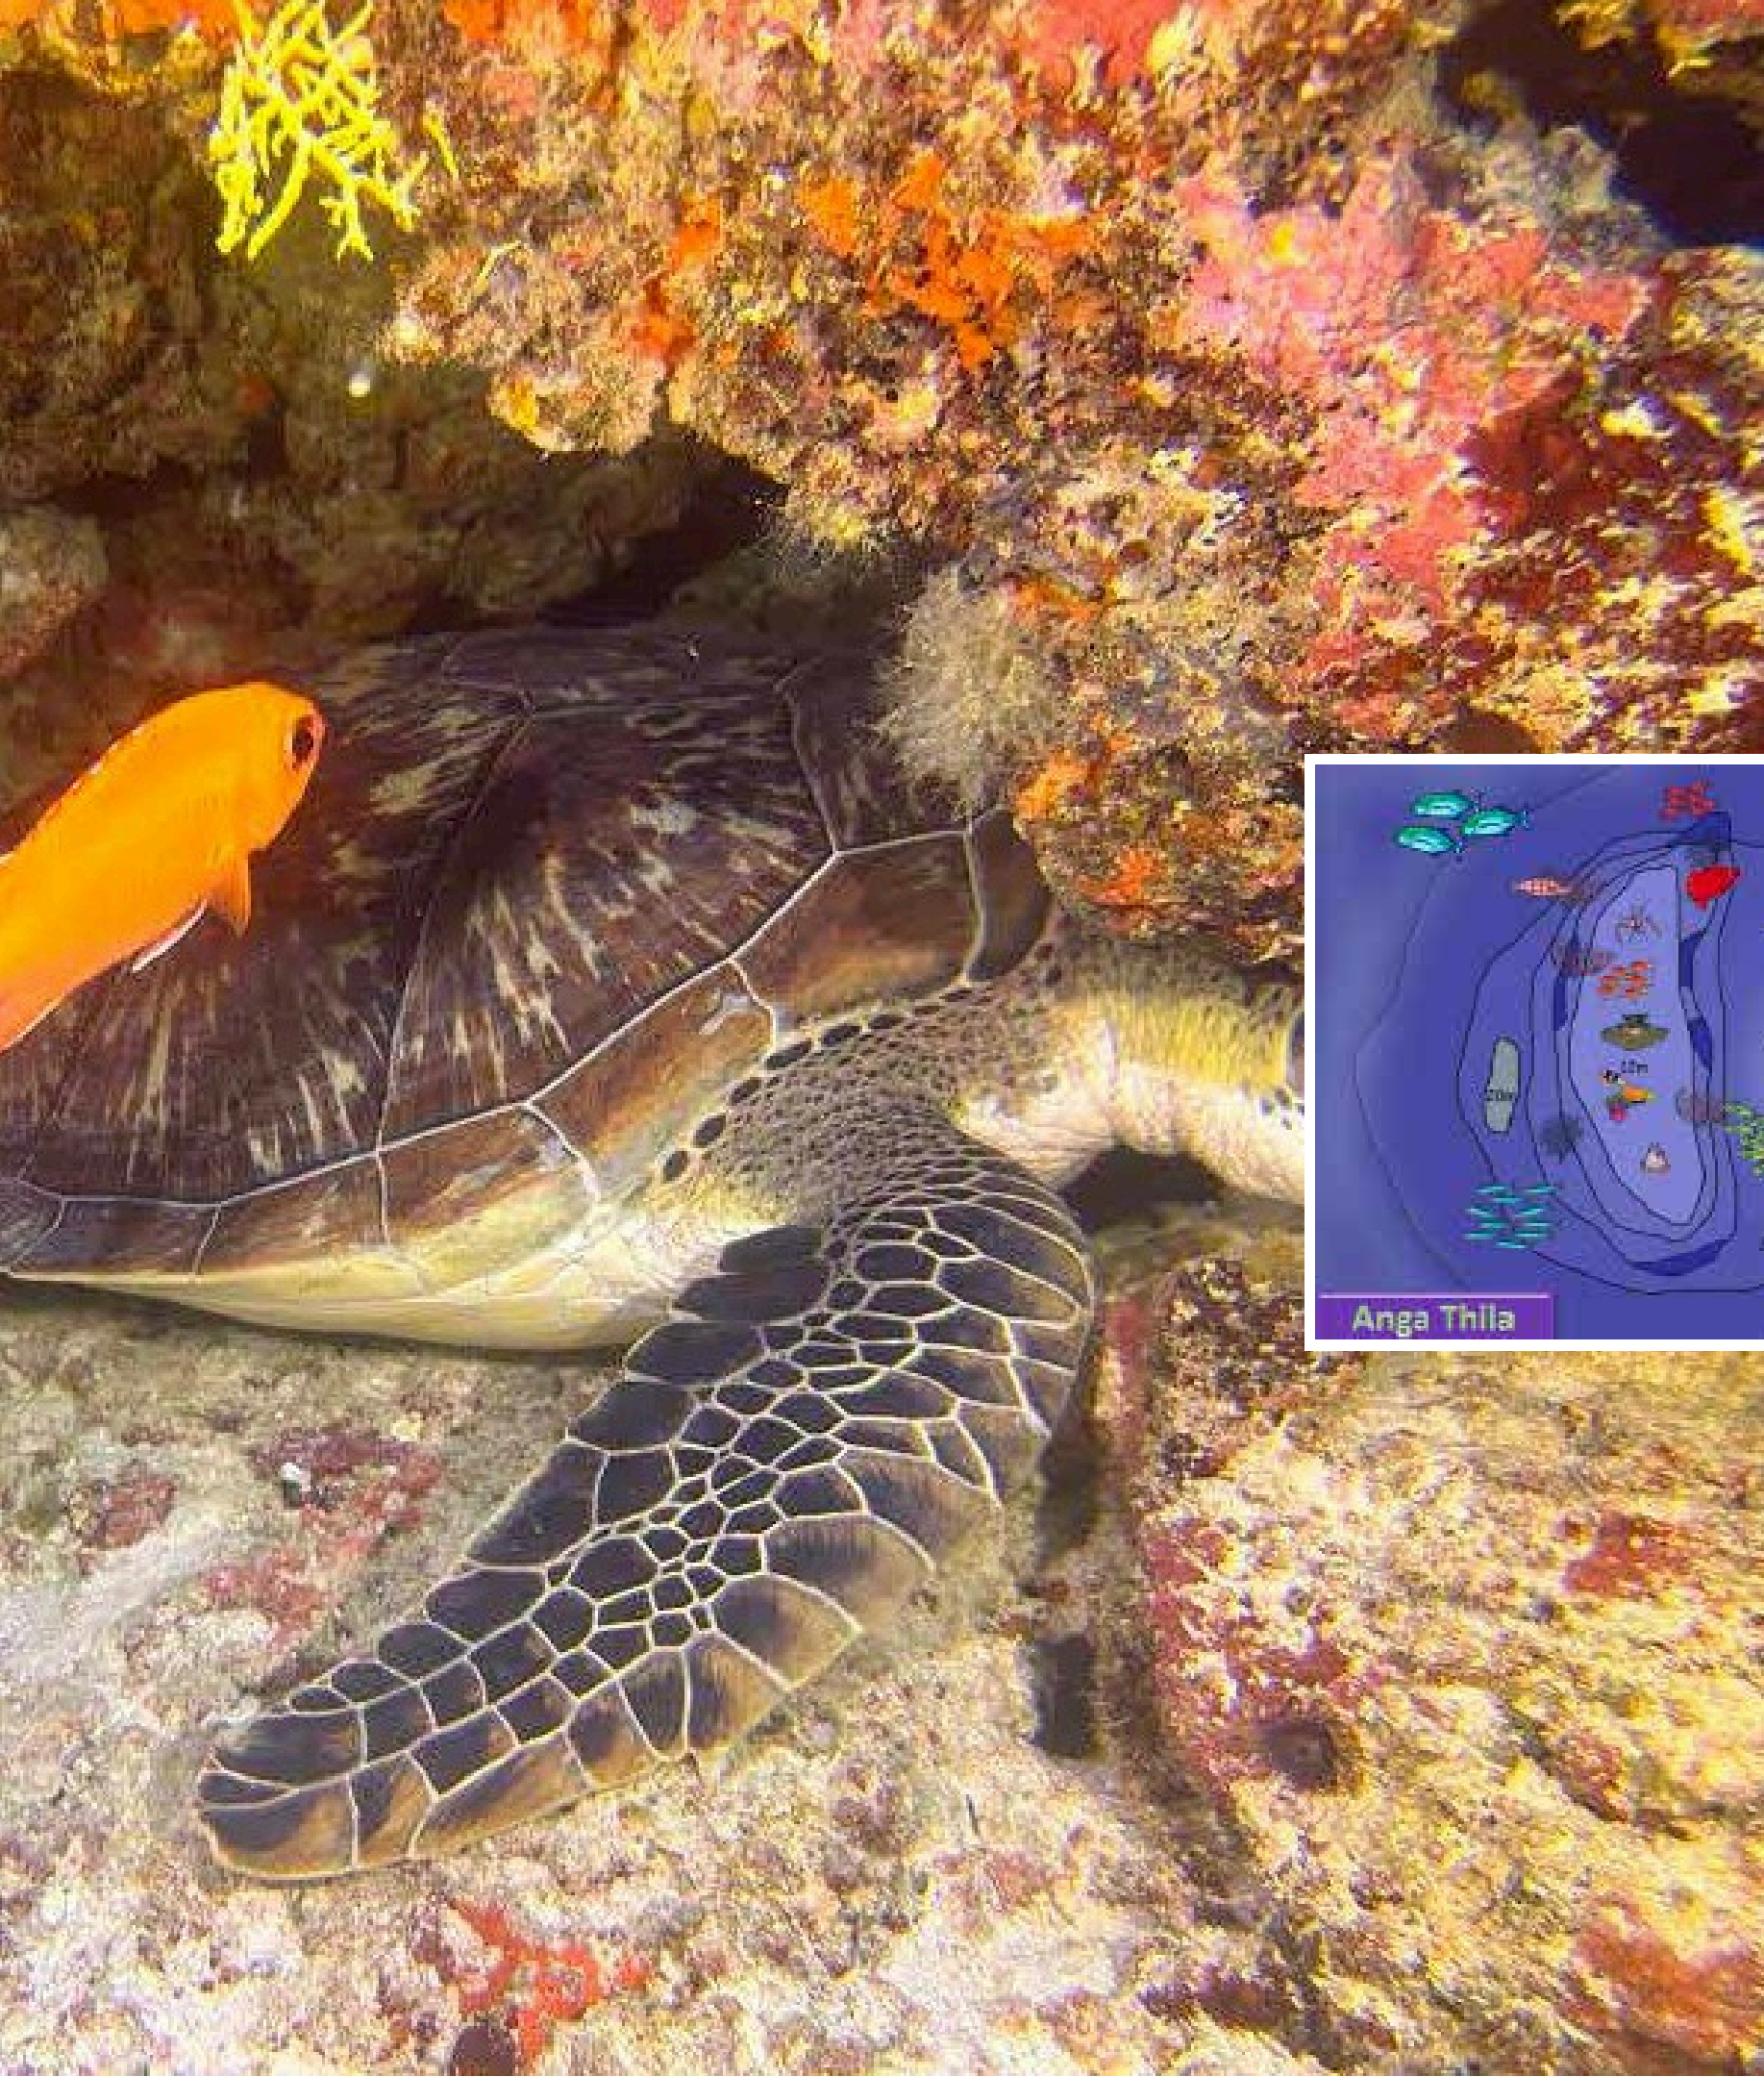

DHARAVANDHOO THILA

Dharavandhoo Thila is divided into two parts. The side facing the outside of the atoll is a sandy area full of garden eels, various different gobies and their partner shrimps, working all day long to keep the entrances of their holes 'sand-free'. Often you can see very big groupers and napoleons roaming the area. The other part of the thila, facing the inside of the atoll, is full of magnificent overhangs, populated by vibrant sea fans and hundreds of cleaner fish, shrimps and other critters such as moray eels, lion- and scorpion fish and countless anthias creating a brightly coloured seascape.

DHIGU THILA

Dhigu Thila is a fairly long reef rising from the sea bottom. Its reef top is divided into three separate mountains, creating canyon-like formations. The outer mountains rise to a depth of only 6 meters, whilst the centered mountain is slightly deeper, beginning from 10 meters. The deepest spots on the reef top are at around 18 meters, from where the vertical walls of the thila start dropping off and displaying marvelous overhangs.

ANGA THILA

This site comprises of two separated coral blocks , at the depth of 15 mtr and 20 mtr and is divided by a canyon. It is a vibrant, brightly coloured reef, full of alluring critters, delicate nudibranches and other delightful micro life, making it an interesting spot for lovers of such and all kind of fish schools. Due to its relatively deep reef top though, it is rather a dive site for experienced divers than beginners. Also photographers will love it, thanks to the rich biodiversity and fantastic colours.

NELIVARU HAA

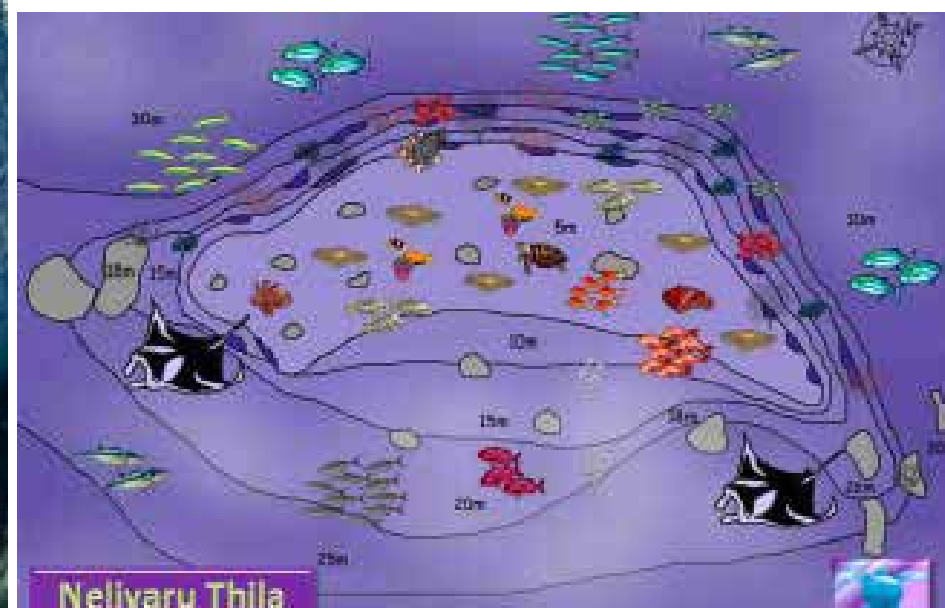

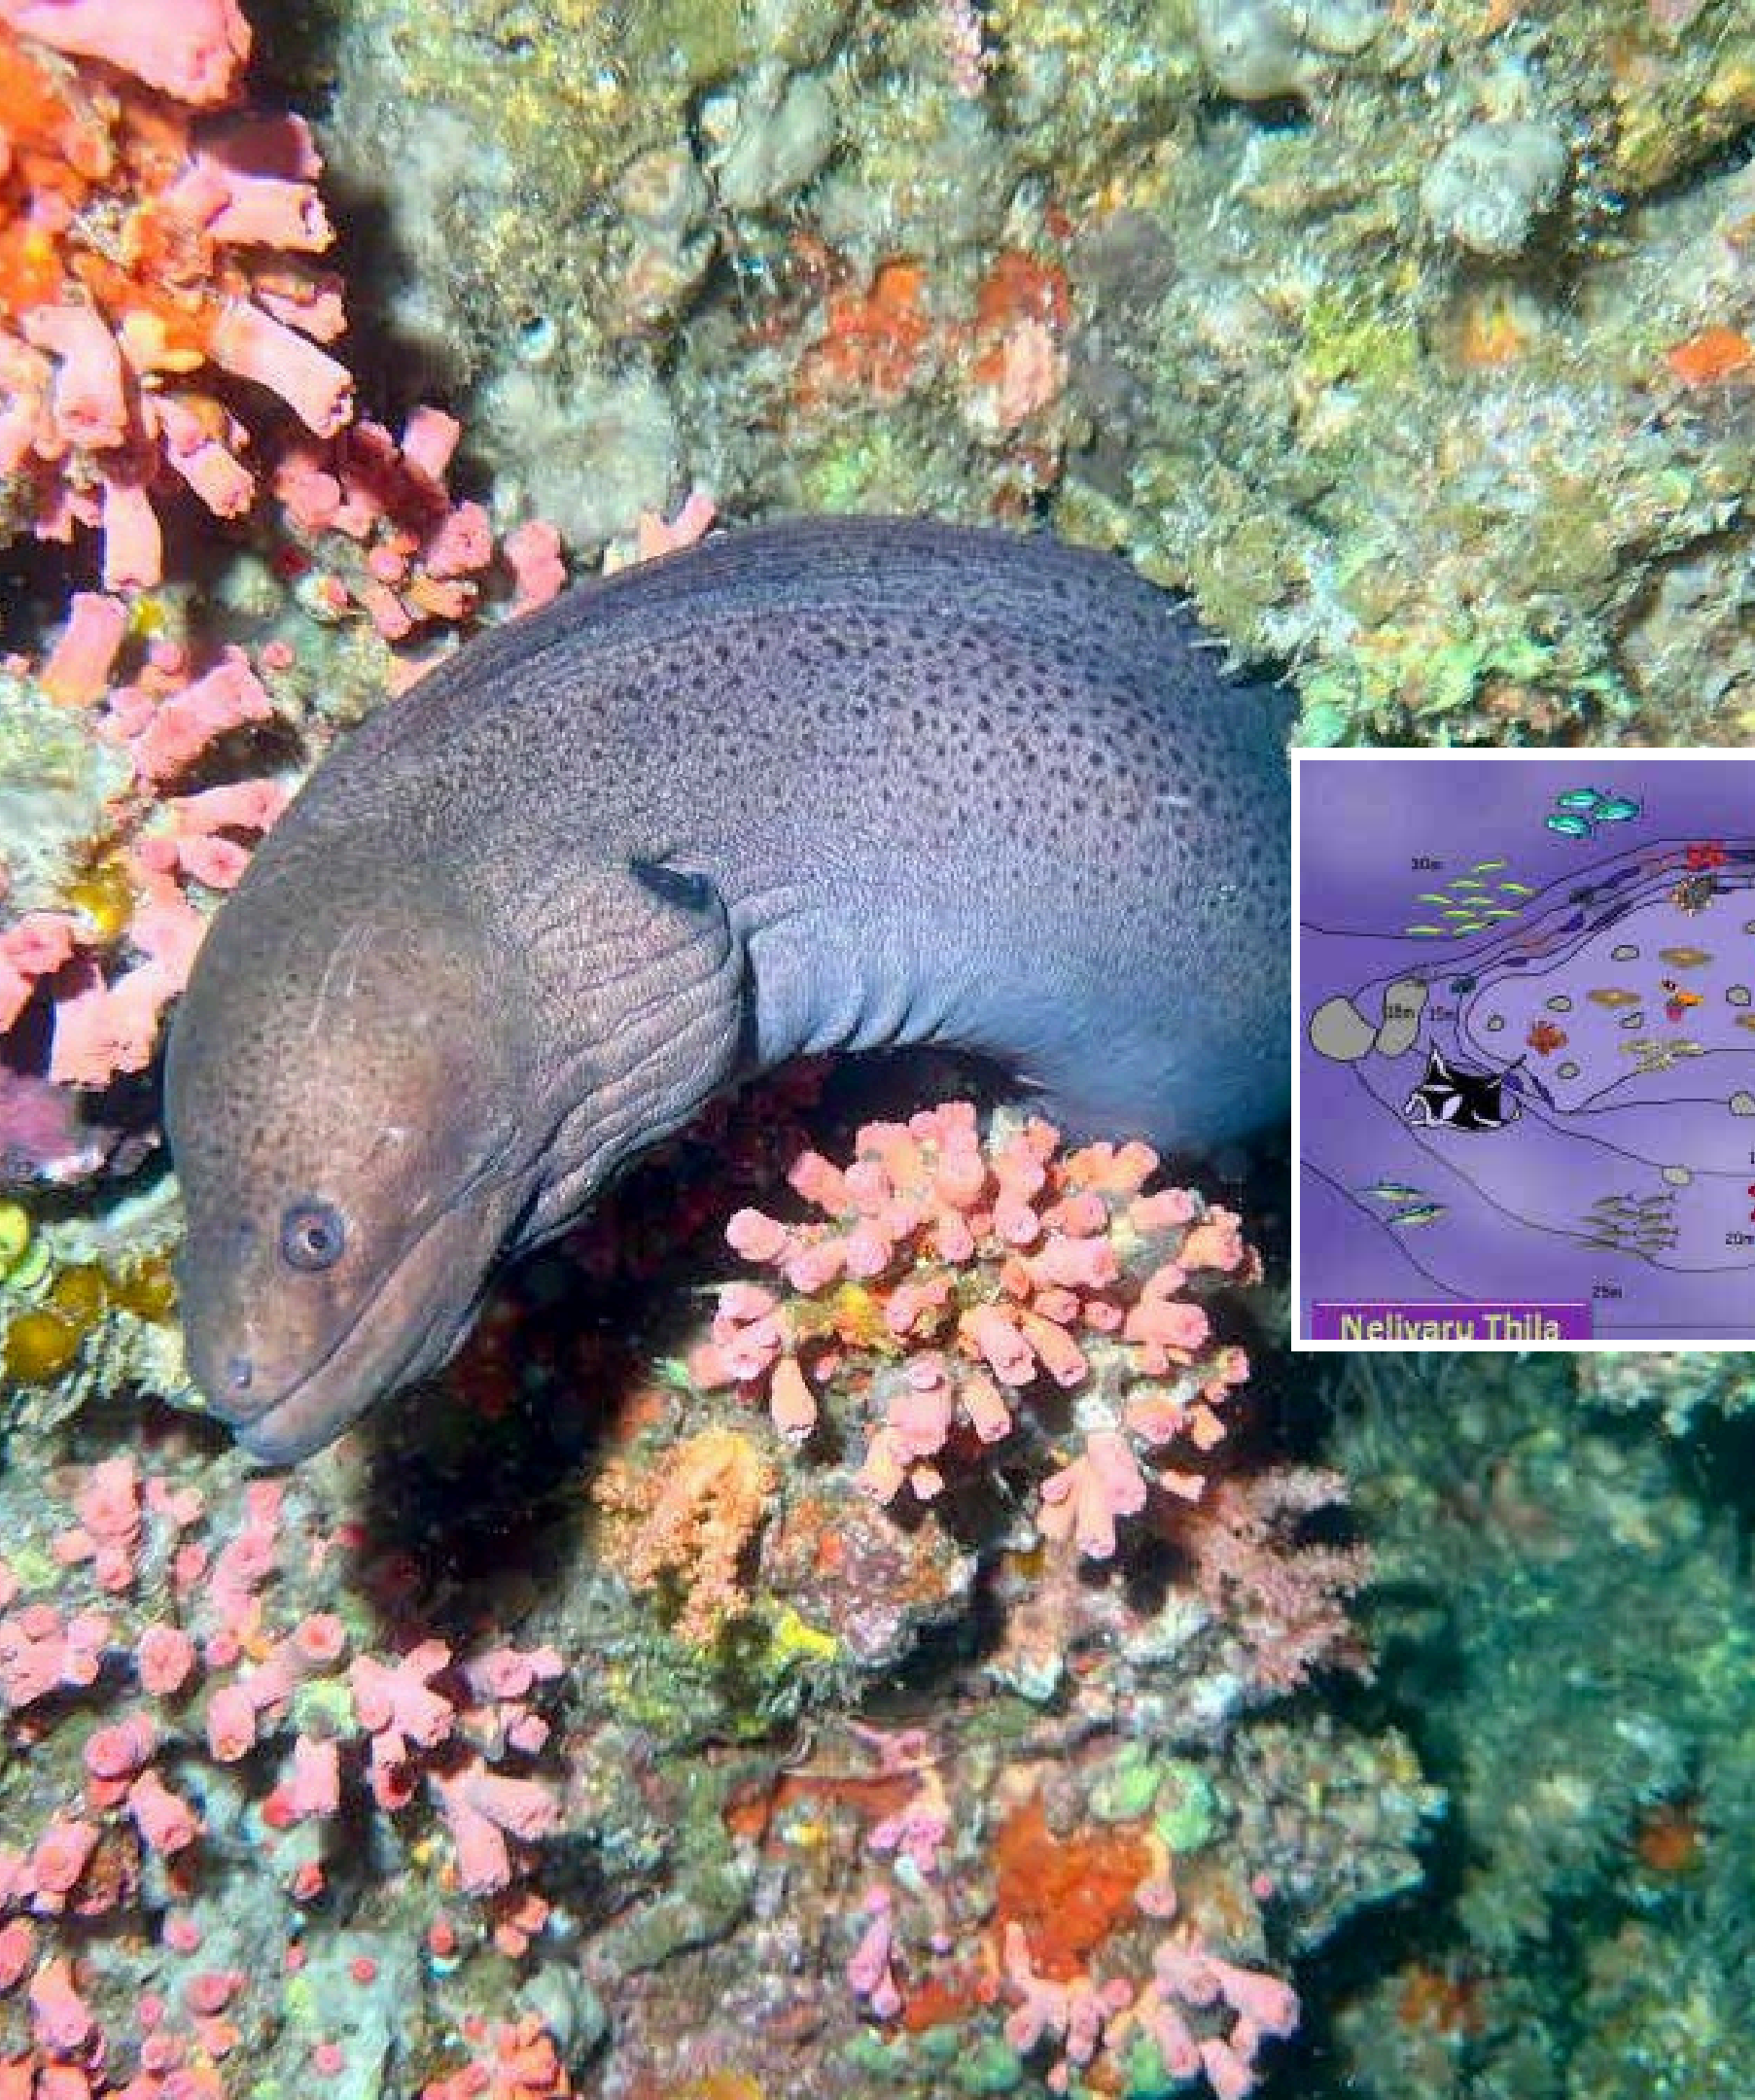

Nelivaru Haa is a fairly long reef rising from the sea bottom. Its reef top is divided into three separate mountains, creating canyon-like formations. The outer mountains rise to a depth of only 6 meters, whilst the centered mountain is slightly deeper, beginning from 10 meters. The deepest spots on the reef top are at around 18 meters, from where the vertical walls of the thila start dropping off and displaying marvelous overhangs.

KAKANI THILA

For sure this is a dive spot which will make any ones eyes sparkle, but for sure underwater photographers will barely have enough of time to document everything they would like to, in even three dives on this spot.

The very particular formation of underwater blocks and mountains connecting the thila to an island, form a unique seascape, covered with vibrant yellow, orange, pink, blue, purple and green soft corals. Nurse sharks and lobsters are known to rest in the overhangs of this reef during day time, while groups of yellow snappers, blue fusiliers, orange anthias and big surgeonfish roam the area.

NELIVARU THILA

This spot is a unique block formed by countless hard and soft coral colonies together. Starting from a depth of approximately 14 meters, this reef, as so many others in this area, is a popular cleaning station for manta rays during summer months.

Also during the rest of the year the reef will leave you breathless, thanks to countless canyons and exquisite over-hangs. Often stingrays frequent the thila, together with schools of sweet lips and curious batfish, which love to interact with the divers.

DIGALI HAA

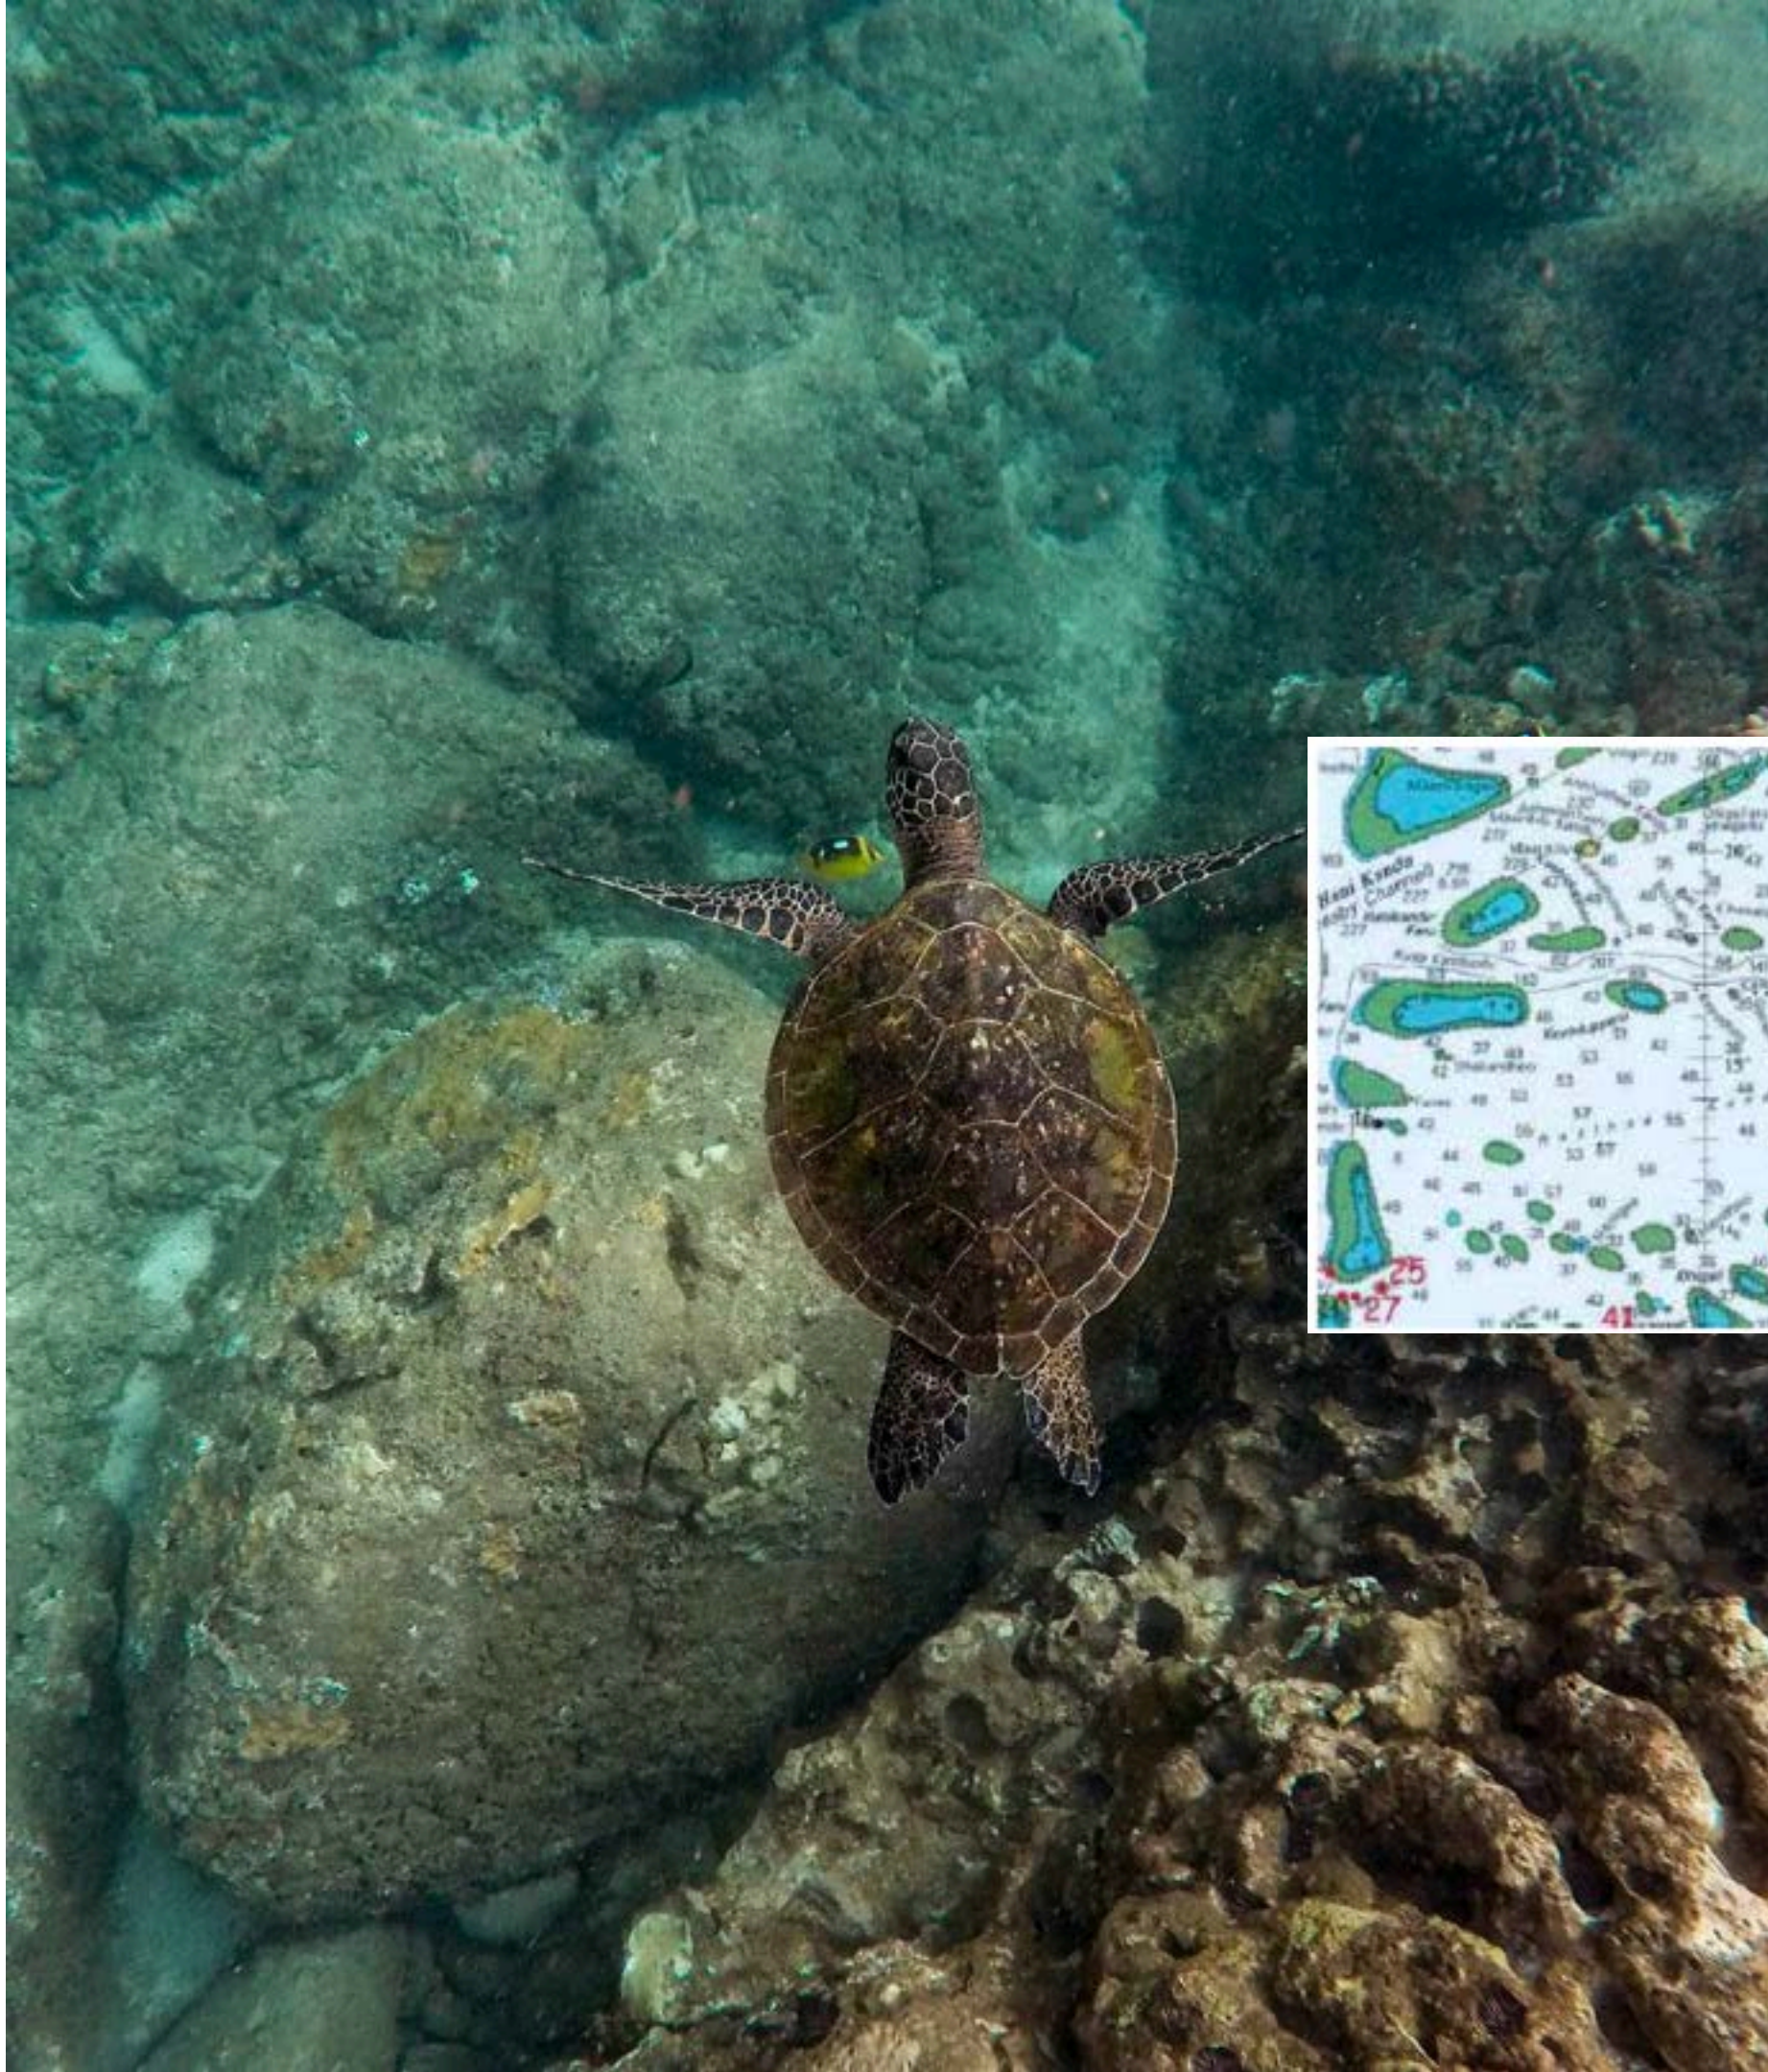

Pretty long reef situated within a channel unfolding itself towards the open ocean. Thanks to the very shallow reef top, starting from only 3 meters, it is an interesting spot, not only for experienced divers, but also for beginners. The shallow area is well protected and richly populated by moray and garden eels, scorpion fish and often turtles come here for feeding. A dazzling blue hole connects this part with greater depths and makes divers reach splendid overhangs full of sun corals and blocks covered with alcyonaria. Towards the blue, you may encounter schools of batfish, bluestripe snappers and fusiliers roaming the waters with elegant stingrays amongst them. If you belong to the lucky ones, you might observe big tunas, napoleons or even grey reef sharks passing by.

DHONFANU THILA

Other than most thilas in our region Dhonfanu Thila is a rather small spot. Here, you will easily be able to get around the whole reef within only one dive, enjoying a rather peculiar seascape. Whilst starting the dive at approximately 20 meters you can easily work your way up, piece by piece, through various 'stories' of coral blocks, seemingly forming a layered birthday cake.

Enjoy its brightly coloured soft and hard corals, black corals and sponges, thanks to which the rich life on the reef consists of different fish schools, octopuses, glassfish and groupers. Only one of the many highlights on this spot is an area completely covered with anemones, resembling a beautiful garden.

AND LOTS OF OTHERS

Apart from the dive sites listed above. There are dozens of other breath taking dive sites in Baa atoll. Come and immerse yourself in this underwater paradise.

DHARAVANDHOO ISLAND

Dharavandho is a local inhabitat island of Baa Atoll in the Maldives with world-class Dive sites.

It is 25 minutes by domestic flight from Male International airport. The beautiful Dharavandhoo lies in the heart of the only UNESCO Biosphere Reserve in the Maldives, and is ideally located to experience the best that this tropical paradise has to offer

We had such a wonderful stay & dives with their very experienced & chilled-out guides. We saw swimming turtles, sharks, eagle rays & of course mantas...not to mention all the little stuff like leaf, bat, scorpion fish, nudibranchs, cleaner shrimps & plenty more 😊....and, like nowhere else in the world, snorkeling in Hanifaru with groups of mantas around us, & the odd whale shark too, was the coolest & most memorable experience ever!

Karthik, the manager, a genuinely super nice and helpful person is simply so helpful & responsive... & surprisingly sometimes answering messages in the middle of the night too. The accommodation & water sports staff, setup out gear every diver & are super knowledgeable about the diving & Hanifaru trips.

This small hotel is very convenient, cozy and creates vacation feeling just from the entrance 🌟 Big, fresh rooms, beautiful designs of ceiling with night stars, good air conditioning, special wooden furniture where you can chill outside. Everything is just great! Karthik (the manager) is a Miracle Maker, he helped us to book domestic flights, advised on our stay, recommended to order lunch on Friday when everything is closed on the island, helped to choose souvenirs, gave some discounts and much-much more! Diving experience and manta snorkelling in Hanifaru were amazing. During our 5 dive trips every time we dived on new location. Crew and instructors are very caring and professional. If you are looking for real Maldives with unforgettable experience for very reasonable money - we strongly recommend Blue World.

Karthikeyan the host, has been so kind and helpfull with everything from planning our transportation and everything else we needed. He was always available and ready to help. wouldn't know what to do without him. The room was amazing. Every room has a sea life theme. Big rooms, with comfortable beds and a nice garden view. We felt very much at home. Top service minded staff and the food has been great. Water, Coffee and tea are free and available all the time. The place is right next to the island airport, but you're not bothered at all. No downsides - this place has my highest recommendation 🙌

In September 2023 My wife and I were accommodated at Blue World on the island of Dharavandhoo. We were visiting this island because of the aggregation of Mantas that in the autumn sometimes takes place in the waters nearby the island. Also we wanted to do some scuba diving in the area.

In connection with the planning of our trip we had questions about many things and every time we contacted Karthik at Blue World, he replied promptly. It all ended up with Karthik planning everything about transfer, accommodation and diving, so basically we just had to book an airline ticket to Male – the rest was taken care of 🙌

The guest house is situated right next to the air strip on the island but with no inconvenience regarding noise. When entering the guest house you meet a cozy lounge area underneath a big fan where you can hang out with other guests. Here is access to tea, coffee and cold water 24/7. On both sides of this area you will find the accommodation areas build in bungalow style and with each unit having its own terrace with chairs. Our room was big and comfortable and with a large bathroom included. The room had both AC and fan. Everything was kept very clean at all times.

Good prices for the excursions. Really good. After going to a few islands we wished we did more there. The main guy Karthik was a legend organising our flights from male at a good rate co pared to Internet prices and answered about a million questions from us without getting tired.
